This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. INTRODUCTORY.

In the following pages an attempt has been made to bring together the titles of the books written by, or relating to, Thomas Jefferson. The arrangement is alphabetical, under the name of the author when this is known, otherwise under the first word of the title, omitting particles.

To avoid cross-references, in the body of the work, books issued anonymously, or under a pseudonym, and there placed under the name of the real author, are given in the first Index under a short title.

The initials following some of the titles indicate the public libraries in which the books may be consulted.

A.	signifies	Astor Library.
B.	"	Boston Public Library.
BA.	"	Boston Athenæum Library.
C.	"	Library of Congress.

[Callender, (James Thompson).]

The Prospect Before Us. Volume I. But, Sir! it has an awful squinting! it squints at Monarchy! —P. Henry. Richmond, Virginia: Printed for the Author and sold by M. Jones, S. Pleasants, jun., and J. Lyon. 1800. (Price One Dollar.)

8 vo, pp. 184. N. C. 24

The Prospect Before Us. Vol. II., Part I. And Hell followed.—St. John. I will not sit unconcerned when my Liberty is invaded, nor look in silence upon public Robbery. I will exert my endeavours, at whatever hazard, to repel the aggressor and drag the Thief to Justice.—Dr. Johnson. Richmond: Printed and Sold by M. Jones, Printer to the Commonwealth; by S. Pleasants, jun., at the office of the Virginia Argus; by T. Field, Petersburg; and by the Author in the Jail of Richmond. [Price Three Quarters of a Dollar.] MDCCC.

8vo, pp. 152. N. C. 25

The Prospect Before Us. Vol. II., Part II. Mine is an Inferior, Ministerial Office, in the Temple of Justice. I have bound the Victim and dragged him to the Altar.—Junius. Richmond: Printed by H. Place, and sold by M. Jones, Printer to the Commonwealth; by S. Pleasants, jun., at the office of the Virginia Argus; by T. Field, Petersburg; and by the Author in the Jail of Richmond. [Price Half a Dollar.] MDCCCI.

8vo, pp. 96. C. 25*

Callender was a Scotchman and a political writer of some notoriety before coming to this country. His writings here were characterized by a severe invective, and for his abuse of the Federal Administration he was tried for sedition and convicted. At the time of writing "The Prospect Before Us" he was friendly to Jefferson, and sought to advocate the interests of the Republicans by denouncing Adams; later, however, he became equally violent against Jefferson himself. Callender was drowned while bathing in the James River at Richmond, Va., July, 1803.

Vide. McMaster's "History of the People of the United States," vol.

II., pp. 338, 468–72, 618–19. See also "Life of Jefferson," by Randall, vol. III., pp. 18 and 19.

A notice of "The Prospect Before Us" is printed in The Magazine of American History, vol. XVII., (April, 1887,) pp. 284–5.

[Callender (J. T.).]

Letters to Alexander Hamilton, King of the Feds, Ci-Devant Secretary of the Treasury of the United States of America, Inspector-General of the Standing Armies Thereof, Counsellor at Law, &c., &c., &c. Being intended as a Reply to a Scandalous Pamphlet lately published under the sanction, as it is presumed, of Mr. Hamilton, and signed with the signature of Julius Philænus. By Tom Callender, Esq., Citizen of the World. New York: Printed by Richard Reynolds, No. 27 Dey Street. 1802.

8vo, pp. 64. C., N. 26

I place this book alphabetically under Callender, although I am inclined to agree with Mr. Ford, Bibliotheca Hamiltoniana, p. 67, that Callender did not write it; the pamphlet criticises the Philænus Letter, No. 198 infra; in 1802, Callender was as bitter towards Jefferson as he had formerly been against the Federalists.

Reprinted as follows: Letters to Alexander Hamilton, King of the Feds. New York: Printed for the Hamilton Club, 1866, Bradstreet Press.

4to and 8vo, pp. (4) 89.

Sixty copies printed, of which 20 were in quarto. This reprint forms No. IV. of the Hamilton Club Series.

[Carpenter (Stephen Cullen).]

Politics for American Farmers: being a Series of Tracts, exhibiting the Blessings of Free Government, as it is administered in the United States, compared with the Stupendous Fabric of British Monarchy. Originally written for, and published in the Aurora of Philadelphia, in the Beginning of . . . 1807. Washington City: Printed by R. C. Weightman for W. Duane, Philadelphia. 1807.

8vo, pp. 200. 56

William Duane was born in America in 1760 but of Irish extraction; he went to Ireland with his mother in early life, and afterwards to India, where he established a newspaper called The World. In 1795 he came to Philadelphia, and wrote for the Aurora, then under the editorial management of Benjamin Franklin Bache, and of which, in 1799, upon the death of Bache, he became the editor. The Aurora exerted a great influence upon the politics of the country and, in the hands of Mr. Duane, was an ardent supporter of Jefferson.

Notes on the State of Virginia; Written in the Year 1781, somewhat Corrected and Enlarged in the Winter of 1782, for the Use of a Foreigner of distinction in Answer to certain queries proposed by him respecting 1, Its Boundaries; 2, Rivers; 3, Sea Ports; 4, Mountains; 5, Cascades and Caverns; 6, Productions, mineral, vegetable and animal; 7, Climate; 8, Population; 9, Military Force; 10, Marine Force; 11, Aborigines; 12, Counties and Towns; 13, Constitution; 14, Laws; 15, Colleges, Buildings and Roads; 16, Proceedings as to Tories; 17, Religion; 18, Manners; 19, Manufactures; 20, Subjects of Commerce; 21, Weights, Measures and Money; 22, Public Revenue and Expences; 23, Histories, Memorials and State Papers. MDCCLXXXII.

8vo, pp. (2) 391. C., H., S., P.H.S. 96

Contains an Eye-draught of Madison's Cave, and folded Table of Names of Indian Tribes.

The pages from 367 to 391 comprise the Appendix, made up of observations furnished to Jefferson by Mr. Charles Thomson, Secretary of Congress.

A copy of this book in the Lenox Library contains the following note in Jefferson's handwriting: "Mr. Jefferson having had a few copies of these Notes printed to offer to some of his friends and to some other estimable characters beyond that line, begs the Abbé Morellet's acceptance of a copy; unwilling to expose them to the public eye, he asks the favor of the Abbé Morellet to put them into the hands of no person on whose care and fidelity he cannot rely to guard them against publication."

This copy is as above described; the copy mentioned by Rich (Bibliotheca Americana Nova, p. 301), presented to M. de Malesherbe, and the copy mentioned in the John Carter Brown Catalogue (Part III., vol. II., p. 192), presented to Dr. Bancroft, have the same note, and are also described as above, from which it is evident that the first copies issued by Jefferson had no additional matter.

Appended, however, to many copies of the Notes in the form of a separate pamphlet is the "Draught of a Fundamental Constitution for the Commonwealth of Virginia," pp. 14, some of the copies of which, I am cognizant, contain, besides the "Draught of a Fundamental Constitution," "Notes on the Establishment of a Money Unit, and of a Coinage for the United States," pp. 14, and "An Act for Establishing Religious Freedom, passed in the Assembly of Virginia in the beginning of the year 1786," pp. 4. The "Draught of a Fundamental Constitution," and the "Notes on the Establishment of a Money Unit" had both been prepared by Mr. Jefferson before the "Notes on Virginia" were printed in Paris. The "Act for Establishing Religious Freedom," however, was not passed until more than a year after the Notes were printed. Its presence in the copies referred to is accounted for on the ground that Jefferson had it put in type after it had passed, and added to such copies of the Notes as he had not yet distributed among his friends; the type and paper being the same as the body of the work indicate this. Jefferson was the author of the Act, and introduced it into the Assembly of Virginia in 1778 or 1779, but it did not become law until the year above mentioned. The type of the first two appendices is the same, although different from that of the body of the book; the paper, however, is similar to that of the book itself. One of the copies which I have seen, containing the three additional pamphlets, was a presentation copy: "Mr. Jefferson begs Mr. Sparrmann's acceptance of this volume," which clearly shows that the work as now found in its completest form was made up by Jefferson himself when in Paris.

The copy of the Notes in the State Library at Albany is composed of the proof-sheets having the author's corrections. [See article of Dr. E. B. O'Callaghan in Historical Magazine, vol. III., Second Series (Feb., 1868), p. 96.] This copy has the "Draught of a Fundamental Constitution" only.

Jefferson's reason for desiring to prevent the publication of the Notes was because he feared that the terms in which he spoke of slavery and the Constitution might produce an irritation in the minds of his countrymen against reformation in these two articles. See Letter to Monroe, Jefferson's Works (Con. Ed.), vol. I., p. 348.

A copy, however, upon the death of its owner, found its way into the hands of a French publisher who caused it to be translated as below:

J[efferson (Thomas).]

Observations sur la Virginie, Par M. J * * *. Traduites de l'Anglois. A Paris. Chez Barrois, l'aîné, Libraire, rue du Hurepoix, près le pont Saint-Michel. 1786.

8vo, pp. (4) xiii., 290 (iv.). Map and Table. 97

The number 290 is a misprint and should read 390. The map which appeared in this translation was engraved by S. J. Neele, and prepared under Jefferson's supervision; it was also used in the English edition of 1787.

This translation was made by the Abbé Morellet and, as he claims, in a note in his copy above alluded to, with Jefferson's consent; it contains many mistakes although in part revised by Jefferson. In a letter to George Wythe, dated Paris, Aug. 13, 1786 (Works, vol. II., p. 6), alluding to the Notes, Jefferson says: "A bad French translation, which is getting out here, will oblige me to publish the original more freely, which it does not deserve and which I did not intend." Jefferson consented to its republication in England by Stockdale of London, who had asked leave to print the book, and who issued the following:

Messages.

In this list of messages I have given only the most important of those which I have found. Those which are omitted contain only a few lines by Jefferson, and merely transmit documents.

A complete set of the Messages by Jefferson, as separately printed pamphlets, is not believed to be in existence. The set that would naturally be found in Washington was destroyed at the burning of the Capitol in 1814. "A Descriptive Catalogue of the Government Publications of the United States, from September 5, 1774, to March 4, 1880," compiled by Ben: Perley Poore, was issued from the Government Printing-Office in Washington in 1885, and purports to contain a list of the messages and papers by Jefferson, and other matters relating to him, which were printed by order of Congress.

8vo, pp. viii., 145. 176

The cases from 1730 to 1740 were extracted by Jefferson while at the bar, from three manuscript volumes of Reports in the possession of John Randolph, Attorney-General of Virginia. Those from 1768–72 were some of the leading cases of that day, arising under the laws of Virginia, which were committed to writing by Jefferson himself. The above volume was prepared for the press by Thomas Jefferson Randolph, the legatee of Jefferson's manuscript papers.

Jefferson (T.).

Memoirs, Correspondence and Private Papers of Thomas Jefferson, late President of the United States. Now first published from the original manuscripts. Edited by Thomas Jefferson Randolph, Henry Colburn, and Richard Bentley. 1829.

4 vols., 8vo. Portrait. N. 178

This is a reprint of the first American Edition.

"These volumes begin with a short fragment concerning Jefferson himself, drawn up at the age of seventy-seven: and close with a still shorter journal kept by him while Secretary of State during Washington's administration. The rest consists exclusively of a voluminous correspondence, ranging from 1775, after blood had been spilt at Boston, to June, 1826, ten days only before his death, so appropriately fixed for the fiftieth anniversary of American Independence."—Edinburgh Review, vol. LI., p. 500.

"The name of Jefferson will be ranked among the principal ornaments of literature and philosophy. Mr. Jefferson will occupy an elevated place in the very highest order of writers—the one of which Cicero and Burke are the great exemplars in ancient and modern times,—writers, who by combining literary and active pursuits, and exhibiting in both a first-rate talent, furnish in their own works the most complete reflection that can possibly be given of the finished man."—ALEXANDER H. EVERETT in North American Review, vol. XXXI., p. 34.

Jefferson, Madison and Calhoun.

Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions of 1798 and 1799; with Jefferson's Original Draught Thereof. Also, Madison's Report, Calhoun's Address, Resolutions of the Several States in Relation to State Rights. With Other Documents in Support of the Jeffersonian Doctrines of '98. "Liberty, the Constitution, Union." Published by Jonathan Elliot. Washington, May, 1832.

8vo, pp. 82. 179

The immediate cause of the Kentucky and Virginia Resolutions was the opposition to the "Alien and Sedition Laws." The Kentucky Resolutions were originally prepared by Jefferson, and passed, with some changes, by the Kentucky Legislature on the 14th of November, 1798. The Virginia Resolutions, of similar import, were passed by the Legislature of that State on the 24th of December of the same year. They were a protest against the Alien and Sedition Laws as "palpable and alarming infractions of the Constitution."

Strictures upon the Letter Imputed to Mr. Jefferson, Addressed to Mr. Mazzei. Printed, June, 1800.

Signed "Greene." 8vo, pp. 12. 258

This letter (Jefferson's Works, vol. IV., p. 139), dated April 24, 1796, was written to Mr. Philip Mazzei, an Italian by birth, but who had been for a long time a resident of Virginia, and a neighbor and intimate friend of Jefferson's. Upon the reception of the letter by Mr. Mazzei, then in Florence, he, without permission, published a translation of it in the Florentine Gazette. It was translated into French, and printed in the Moniteur, the official paper of the French government. From thence it was translated into English. Naturally some changes from the original was the result of all these translations. The letter created quite a stir at the time, and was severely commented upon by the Federalist newspapers. See Tucker's "Life of Jefferson," vol. I., pp. 517–528, and Randall's "Life," vol. II., 363 and following pages.

The Kentucky Resolutions of 1798. An Historical Study. By Ethelbert Dudley Warfield, A.M., LL.B., Barrister at Law. New York & London: G. P. Putnam's Sons. The Knickerbocker Press. 1887.

12mo, pp. ix. 203. 269

This writer claims that John Breckinridge, who introduced them into the Kentucky Legislature, "was the master workman and responsible author of the Resolutions." He admits, however, that Breckinridge sought and received aid from Mr. Jefferson, and used a draught of resolutions largely composed by Jefferson himself, but so revised and modified by Breckinridge as to really make them his own.

8vo, pp. 506. N.,BA.,C.,P.H.S. 279

Contains a Biography of Thomas Jefferson.

This book was printed and ready for publication in December, 1801, but was suppressed at the instigation of Aaron Burr as being incorrect and also libellous. Overtures were made to the publishers, Messrs. Barlas and Ward, by Burr and his friends, for the purchase of the edition, and it was finally given up to them. The book was subsequently issued, and the following advertisement appeared in the New York Evening Post for June 2, 1802.

"This day is published in one large octavo volume and for sale by Naphtali Judah, 84 Maiden Lane, The History of the Administration of John Adams, Late President of the United States. By John Wood, Author of the History of Switzerland and Swiss Revolution. The above is the work said to have been suppressed by the Vice-President."

Copies of the history exist with the title-page mutilated by having the names of Barlas and Ward cut out. When the book was placed on sale a new title-page was added bearing the imprint, "New York Printed 1802."

James Cheetham published a "Narrative" of its suppression, see our No. 31, ante, which was answered by John Wood in "A Correct Statement of the Various Sources from which the History of the Administration of John Adams was compiled and the Motives of its Suppression by Col. Burr, with Some Observations on a Narrative by a Citizen of New York." New York, 1802. 8vo, pp. 58.

The history was reprinted in Philadelphia in 1846, under the title: "The Suppressed History of the Administration of John Adams (from 1797 to 1801), as printed and suppressed in 1802. By John Wood . . . now republished with Notes, and an Appendix by John Henry Sherburne." Sm. 8vo, pp. 391. Portrait.
